KNOWLEDGE TO ACTION

Call for Applications to the K2A Small Grant Programme

The Knowledge2Action network is looking for applications to its small grant programme. The grant should ideally involve implementation of knowledge into action.

The grant could for example be used to pilot outcomes of theoretical research. It could also be used to test hypotheses that are expected to lead to impact on the ground. We encourage innovative and bold approaches to tackle problems related to sustainable development, e.g. new approaches to waste management, addressing (social) inequity, revive and mainstream disappearing practices and traditions that once were the foundations of a sustainable and respectful coexistence with other species. Proposals should however have a sound scientific basis or research element.

Proposals could also address emerging and manifesting situations like resilience and adaptation to extreme weather events, crop failures and poor nutritional values of our diet leading to poor health and developmental outcomes, especially in low income communities.

What you need to know

Application deadline:	15 April 2024
Maximum funding amount:	5000 CHF
Runtime of the project:	6 months

One intermediate report and one final report required.

How to apply?

Kindly provide the proposal and a CV of the project's lead researcher using the application form. We especially encourage women and early career researchers to apply. We furthermore welcome applications with an element of interdisciplinary or international collaboration.
